

The FIVE Network

Introduction

FIVE uses advanced technologies to scale and maximize the power of mentorship focusing on diverse, underrepresented youth from the toughest backgrounds.

Why Mentoring?

Maya Angelou mentored Oprah Winfrey. Warren Buffet mentored Bill Gates. Sir Freddie Laker mentored Richard Branson. Michelle Robinson (Obama) mentored Barack Obama.

Mentoring is so important now because it provides a road to success, a road to wellness, a road to opportunities, and a road to personal and professional satisfaction for both mentors and mentees.

Why now?

The combination of a lethal global pandemic and a laying bare of systemic social injustices has created a unique moment of both reflection and opportunity in our country. There is a palpable, powerful collective motivation to act, make change, and be a part of long-term solutions. FIVE provides a simple, effective, sustainable way to make a positive, lasting impact in the lives of others.

Schools are looking for lifelines.

Parents are looking for help.

Students are looking for mentors.

Why FIVE?

FIVE is a Mentor operating System that uses technology to bring mentee and mentor together, in sustainable, measurable, transformative ways. It is a durable solution to help strengthen the economy, counteract the weaknesses within the school system, connect people who are disconnected, and bring positive reciprocal outcomes for mentors and mentees.

FIVE's platform provides mentors with virtual training and guidance to have the most impactful relationship with their mentees from wherever they are whenever they want. The convenience of FIVE's app allows for more time to be spent on meaningful correspondences and less time on logistics.
